Interdimensional Exploration Journal

Today, something strange happened. During my travels, I happened across some kind of a... Mall. The sign said "Palm Plaza", it's not a name I recognized.

I'm a naturally curious type, so I went in. The moment I stepped through the sliding doors, it happened. My nose became smaller, my body became covered in soft white fur, and... My breasts grew larger? Not sure how I didn't immediately notice that last one.

I didn't notice any of the changes until I saw my reflection in one of the fountains. I've read about creatures that look like this, I think they're called "Mallkin". There were other Mallkin walking around and working at the stores, but I didn't try to approach any of them.

It seems when I'm in this mall, I'm stuck as a Mallkin. When I leave, I can turn back into my normal form, and then back into a Mallkin if I so desire. It seems some instances of this mall have transformative properties on certain individuals. How peculiar, I shall have to do further research.

Also, my new white fur is really soft and pretty. I like that a lot.
